There has, during the last two months, been an opinion gaining ground that war was not likely to oc cur, that the angry passions had been somewhat soothed, but the affair at Belfort and the intrigues and conspiracies going on in Alsace-Lorraine, show that the irritation is constant is as ridiculous as it is childish. Of course, if the Hawaiian Envoy fills himself with the champagne and square face gin that he is so bountifully supplied with by a paternal gov ernment, out of the pockets of the Ha waiian taxpayers, there can be no wonder that he makes himself generally obnoxious to all decent people, and the idle vaporings of such a man would not be worth attending to, were he not in the position he is. A full stop must be put to the whole matter. We are the laughing stock of the Pacific now, and we shall soon be pointed at as the frightful example.

> What is the Government going to do about Junius Kaae? We are well aware that the Hawaiian Government is corrupt from top to bottom, we have shown in these columns some of the foul depths to which it has gone, but up to the present it has had the decency to try and veil its corruption. Junius Kaae however, has been publicly charged with crime along with the King. There has been only one thing to do, and that was to bring the GAZETTE before the Courts. This has not been done and our charges remain unanswered and unanswerable. How then can such a manbe retained in his position of Registrar of Conveyances? With such a record as has been published about him, Junius Kaae could not obtain the post of cashier of a peanut stand. His integ rity has been shown to be worthless, and yet he draws a magnificent salary and has charge of some of the most valuable documents in the Kingdom. We have thieves in our navy, men of no character in our Ministry, a bribe receiver on the throne. All this is bad enough, and bad in such form that in a short time it must be righted, one way or another, but to retain Kaae in such a responsible position is out Heroding Herod. The man ought to have his conduct investigated in open court, and if he is guilty, should suffer the full penalty of his evil doing. Until he is cleared he should be suspended from his duties, and the valuable books and papers which he has in his charge, should be put under the care of some one who has not so black a cloud hanging over his character.

Any man with a keen sense of honor would have called for public investi-gation long ago, but the Hawaiian Cabinet has no sense of honor whatever, and is willing to be smeared with ill deeds from head to foot, to connive at any rascality in others, so long as it can retain office and fill its pockets out of the public treasury. Every member of the Government stands disgraced at the present time, and there is not a foreign office in the world that will not, in a few weeks, be fully acquainted with the details of the opium bribe. It will add greatly to the force of the documents and affidavits when it is known that one of the prime movers in the transaction still remains Registrar of Conveyances, and is presumably as much for sale for nefarious purposes in this responsible position as he has been during the engineering of the opium

One Who Speaks Out.

HONOLULU, June 6, 1887. ED. GAZETTE: —After doing business in this country upwards of thirty-six years, and assisting, as we have, in building it up, we have been grossly insulted by the meanest and wickedest Government in God's creation. The seizure of three Bullock rifles, with 1,000 cartridges, ex Australia (afterwards delivearthuges, ex Austrana (anterwards denverged up by the police when we had commenced suit). The lawful entry had been previously passed. The cause of doing it was the guilty conscience and the great fright the Government are in for their published evil deeds, which, through a free press, is known to all the taxpayers on the Islands, who are now seeking redress from the Home Governments, and sooner or later we will have it, for we will not be robbed with Impunity. Cato in your last spoke out:
"Hight will prevail. We shall have the approval of the civilized world. The Constitutional Government of the Kamehamehas has been changed into an absolute despot-ism. Let us act unitedly, firmly, judiciously, when right will succeed." Chickens come home to roost. Indignation is at boiling when right will sacceed." Chickens come home to roost. Indignation is at boiling point. Our grandchildren robbed of their birthright. We came here—self, wife and children—under British protection, and have Saturday, June 11.—General Exhibition of

The King and Gibson must be made responsible to some power, although they tell us the King is above law. They have vio-lated the law of the land, contrary to the Constitution, and this at the expense of their sacred oaths, in their land-grabbing scheme We must, and will, have redress, and nothing short of a new Constitution, with a reconstruction of the Government, will satisfy the robbed nation of taxpayers.

Within a mouth we expect both an English and American man-of-war in our harbor.

The Appeal to the People

EDITOR GAZETTE:-The honor of the nation demands that the King should clear himself of the onerous charges of dishonesty which have lately been brought against him; and it clearly becomes the duty of every citizen of this Kingdom, who has the welfare of the same at heart to unite in concerted action and support the "Appeal to the People" made by the Rev. Dr. C. M. Hyde. Yours respectfully, R. W. MEYER. Kalae, Molokai, 4th June, 1887.

The Hand-Writing on the Wall.

EDITOR GAZETTE-You have from time to time fully detailed the follies and iniquities of the powers that be, and, with others, have wondered why an outraged community does not meet together and protest against the shameless course of misgovernment which has been inflicted upon it. But the public is tired of meetings, as well as of protests in the press and elsewhere, which only seem to provoke a more high-handed course of misrule, accompanied by threats and acts on the part of the Executive, which clearly indicate that they propose to back their wrong-doing by forcible means, and to coerce those of the people whom they cannot cajole with gin or gingerbread into submission to it.

It has now for a long time been the only consoling reflection left for thoughtful citizens that it is impossible this state of affairs can last forever, and it has been concluded that the best course under the circumstances was to give our rulers rope enough, and they would hang themselves. The progress of events seems to have justified this policy, by the rapidity with which folly has succeeded folly, from sacred pigs to a ship of war manned by drunkards, criminals and cavalry officers, and by the way in which iniquity has succeeded iniquity, from land-grabbing to the opium swindle.

The latter, so fully exposed in your last ssue, completes the evidence which has gradually unfolded itself before the public that the opium bill, conceived in iniquity and evidently intended as a fraud by the very terms of it, passed by a corrupt majority of the two Houses in legislature assembled, approved by the King and countersigned by one of his ministers, has been used by the present Exec-utive as a means for robbing a certain portion of the community, who were prepared to be the accomplices of the Government in an organized plot for raising money by debauching the rest of their countrymen, but who never dreamed in the heathen simplicity of their hearts that any professional band of plunderers could be so hopelessly stupid as not to know and to remember that to insure success in their calling a certain amount of honor is necessary, even among thieves. The inordinate capacity of some members of our precious Executive Government, who, not content with a fair division of the spoil, must deliberately rob some of their would-be ac-complices of every dollar they could raise, with sundry roast pigs thrown in, has caused the whole plot to be "given away." Every single head of the Government in each department has become an accomplice in this now fully exposed swindle either before or after the fact, for they hold on to their offices without making the slightest attempt to punish their colleagues or their employees participated in, or connived at, the robbery directly or indirectly by the receipt of bribes or of a portion of the spoils. In fine, it stands out as clear as noonday that the Constitution of the Kingdom, the Legislature and the Executive, and therefore rights and the hands of a band of brigands; but if ever a gang of maranders succeeded in hanging themselves with the slack of the rope which has been given them, our rulers seem to be on the verge of that position to day, for they have carefully adjusted the noose around their own necks and now stand together on one platform, with black caps over their faces, only waiting for some one to draw the boit and—as the newspapers say in reporting such affairs—launch the unhappy culprits into eternity. A Long Sufferen. Hosolulu, June 6, 1887.

Ohia Wood.

EDITOR GAZETTE:-Since reading Mr. Meyers' communication in your paper regarding the durability of Oahia timber, I have been promted to send you my experi-ence, which though not extensive, has so far been more fortunate than his. There are I believe several kinds of Ohia; I know of two and they are quite opposite in character—one kind white and soft, the other deep red and hard, and blackens with age; the latter is most plentiful in this district. Four years ago, I put down some two inch planking of this under a circular saw-much out of doors and it has been covered with soil and saw dust ever since, and has never been dry from that day to this, to-day I examined it, and it is sound as the day it was put there—the saw marks are still on it, nor is there any signs of rot. I also use it entire for gates on my place, and have large ones to my driving pens, the sills imbedded in soil which is nearly always wet and muddy. They have been put up more than four years, and show no signs of decay, and I shall be much disappointed if I am obliged to remove them for the next fifteen years.

The last few days, I have been engaged in sawing logs into timbers for a wharf, which Prazer, R W have been lying in the woods since they were cut, 3½ or 4 years ago—overgrown with ferns and vines, just the place for a log to rot—and I find every one of them sown in most cases I find every one of them sown, in most cases even the bark intact.

Of course a sapling, 6 inches through don't last for any purpose, these being only about two inches of heart in it, the same holds goods of any other timber in any country. I Huskinson, Mrs Alice have about 2000 R. R. ties here, also sawn. Johnson & Co four years ago, and closely piled. I had doran Mis* E occasion to remove some of them not long Kramet, W hosel, G since, and they looked as fresh as new in side the pile despite wind and weather. I may here state that this is not a wet locality, it does not rain quite as much as in Hilo, Liandre, A but it rains oftener. ROBERT RYCE Pohoiki, Puna, Hawaii, May 27, 1887. ROBERT RYCHOFT.
